

Code of Conduct for Adults

Note: Where we refer to adults, we mean any person over the age of 18

(Adapted from UKA and HCAF codes of conduct. Reviewed Jan 2025)

All course participants will receive a short briefing on health and safety before commencing their course.

When you are our guest at Flavours:

- ✓ Make sure we have up to date contact, medical and dietary details
- ✓ Participate within the rules of the kitchen, respect decisions of chefs and staff
- ✓ Anticipate and be responsible for your own needs, including being organised and being dressed appropriately:
 - All participants must wear shoes with flat, non-slip soles and covered toes, preferably leather. We cannot admit you to the cookery school without proper footwear.
 - Wear sensible clothing - we will not be held liable for any damage that occurs to clothing.
 - Long hair must be tied back in the kitchen.
- ✓ Talk to us if you have any concerns about any part of our business – we'd love to hear from you

In terms of behaviour:

- ✓ Act with dignity and display courtesy and good manners towards others
- ✓ Refrain from any inappropriate or anti-social behaviour
- ✓ Follow guidance from chef with regards to use of kitchen equipment
- ✓ Illegal substances are prohibited

As a kitchen, we are a high-risk activity. We use gas hobs, electric ovens, knives, and graters as well as hot equipment. Whilst training is given in the use of the equipment and all reasonable steps to monitor its use are taken, we cannot be held responsible for injury following behaviour which ignores advice given.

We expect all adults to follow this code. We reserve the right to exclude any adult whose behaviour contradicts any of the points set out above and puts others at risk, without refunding course fees. Any unpaid fees will still be payable.
